Physician of the Year

Robert Moser, MD, loves everything about his job...and it shows. Chosen by the Kansas Academy of Family Physicians as the 2006 Kansas Family Physician of the Year, Moser has been integral in positively influencing health care in rural western Kansas.

As a family physician at Greeley County Health Services, Moser embraces numerous qualities that contribute to his ability to provide valuable health care to western Kansas. In a statement nominating Moser for the award, Todd Burch, CEO, Greeley County Health Services states, "Dr. Moser is the true embodiment of what all family physicians in rural America should strive to emulate."

Robert Moser, MD

Moser attended the University of Kansas Medical School, Wichita, Kan., and completed his residency training at Smoky Hill Family Medicine Residency, Salina, Kan. In addition to serving as medical chief at Greeley County Health Services, Moser is medical director for Greeley County's LTC, Hospital lab, Home Health and EMS, and is the district deputy coroner.

Being a family physician means having the ability to care and treat a wide range of illnesses and variety of patients. The peers, patients, and community members who nominated Moser would attest that his abilities far exceed those minimum requirements, as he has helped shape health care for rural western Kansans.

We congratulate Dr. Moser on his accomplishments and thank him for his contributions to health care in rural Kansas.

Welcome!

The Kansas Recruitment Center (KRC) was established to assist Kansas' rural communities in recruiting and retaining physicians and other health care providers; conversely, KRC assists health care candidates in finding the right practice or career opportunity, and ensuring they receive the support and assistance needed to enjoy their life in Kansas. I am proud to say that KRC has been successful in assisting both communities and candidates in finding the "right match."

Since January, KRC has assisted in the recruitment of eleven physicians and health care professionals to rural Kansas. I would like to welcome each of them. Neil Goodloe, MD, will begin practice at Labette County Medical Center, Parsons, Kan., this summer. Nancy Rushing, RN, originally from Cedar Vale, Kan., accepted a position with Anthony Hospital, Anthony, Kan., early this spring.

Jorge Guillen, MD, family physician, is practicing at the United Methodist Mexican-American Ministries, Dodge City, Kan. Amy Madril, MD, family physician, will practice at Ashley Clinic, Chanute, Kan., this summer after completion of her family practice residency at Wesley Medical Center.

Brandi Bowen, ultrasound technologist, began her position with Bob Wilson Memorial Grant County Hospital, Ulysses, Kan., in March. Elizabeth Hineman, MD, will begin her practice at Scott County Hospital, Scott City, Kan., in the fall, after completion of her family medicine residency at Baptist Lutheran in Kansas City, Mo. Norman Petty, MD, emergency medicine physician, joined the Labette County Medical Center, Parsons, Kan.

In April, Charles Zerr, MD, internist, joined New Frontier Services, Oakley, Kan. Alex Curiel, MD, family physician, will also join the staff at New Frontier Services in July 2007, after completing his residency
